

Washington—The President will definitely visit the Pacific coast late this month or early in October.

To ward off the usual deluge of invitations and political conjectures, doubt is still being cast on his plans. But privately he is all set to make the transcontinental trip. The only thing that could keep him from doing so would be a development in the Far East making it imperative for him to remain in Washington.

Great efforts will be made to minimize the political significance of the junket. The President will insist that his primary object is to visit his only daughter, Mrs. Anna Dill Boettiger, in Seattle. However, it is a safe bet he will make several, or more, addresses while enroute. And with the political situation what it is, anything he says is sure to have political implications.

Certainly the anti-administration Democrats through whose states he travels will be acutely alert for any hostile gesture toward them. In political circles there is much lively conjecture over what the anti-New Dealers will do about visiting his train.

Some of the politicians are offering wagers that the boys, despite their strong personal antipathy, will be on hand when Roosevelt rolls into their bailiwicks. It will be interesting to see just what they do.

Life Begins . . .

Here is a cheering word for women over 40.

As reported by The Democratic Digest, Mrs. Roosevelt, in response to a question whether young women are more capable of holding business positions than women over 40, replied:

"I certainly do not think so. Women over 40 should have acquired experience and be more valuable, as long as they retain their health and ability to adapt themselves to working with other people, if necessary to work in new ways."

Securities Act Joker

The securities and exchange commission has given a new twist to the old adage, "There is more than one way to skin a cat."

Contrary to general belief, the SEC has no authority to compel a company to modify its financial policies or cease practices the commission considers unsound. A concern can do practically anything it wants as long as it reports its activities in the registration statement that must be filed with the SEC to float an issue of stock or bonds.

The only weapon the commission has is the power of publicity. That would be ample if investors could easily understand the complicated registration statements, and also take the trouble to read them. The difficulty is that they can't and don't.

To offset its lack of regulatory power, the commission has quickly been taking advantage of a little joker in the securities act to protect stockholder interests. An illustration of how this indirect strategy works is the case of the Ohio Public Service Company.

Useful Amendments

On August 4 the firm filed a statement with the SEC for a $32,000,000 security issue. Under the act 20 days must elapse before a registration can become legally effective.

From time to time between August 4 and 24, the utility filed with the commission certain amendments to its original statement. These changes were made in the belief that they did not affect the 20-day time limit.

Ordinarily, that is the practice of the SEC. But what the company did not know was that the law was so written that the commission may, if it so desires, require registrants to wait 20 days after their last amendment has been received.

It was this unknown joker that the SEC used to crack down on the Ohio utility.

$344,000 Item

August 24 arrived. The company was all set to sell its securities. But the SEC made no announcement of the registration statement. Excitedly an official of the firm called up by long distance.

Pleasantly, he was informed of the commission's power to extend the time limit. Then, a little more sharply, he was advised that the SEC viewed with strong disapproval a transfer of $344,346 from the company's reserve for replacements earned surplus—where the money could be readily passed on in the form of dividends to the concern's sole common stockholder, Henry L. Doherty's giant Cities Service corporation.

Also, the SEC indicated distaste for the utility's agreement with Halsey, Stuart & Co., underwriter of the issue, to give the latter first call on future bond flotations.

Polio Cases Mount To 106 For Week

Springfield, Ill., Sept. 7.—(AP)—Dr. Frank J. Jirka remained on duty as director of the Public Health department today, as the number of new cases of infantile paralysis for the week ending yesterday rose to 106, compared with 46 the previous week.

Although there was no official confirmation, reports circulated that Governor Horner planned to defer acceptance of Dr. Jirka's resignation until the peak of the disease has passed.

The new cases of infantile paralysis brought the 1937 total to 345 compared with 137 for the same period last week. Health records show that the worst epidemic of the disease occurred in 1917 with 833 cases. In 1931 there were 700 cases compared with 682 last year.

Fifty-four of the 106 new cases were from Cook county.

Dr. Jirka was enroute from Chicago today to be guest of honor at a health department dinner.

Hen Does Her Bit

Taylorville, Ill., Sept. 7.—(AP)—Farmer Harvey Allen is the proud owner of a hen which did its bit in adding to the season's bumper crop records. He displayed an egg measuring nine inches around the long way and seven inches in girth. "The hen must have been impressed by stories of Iowa's tall corn," Allen said.

Wetter Water Answer to Chemist's Prayer, Result of Alcohol Mixture

Rochester, N. Y., Sept. 7.—(AP)—Wetter water—answer to the prayers of millions for something to take dust out of the air like nothing else ever did—became a reality today.

This latest miracle of chemistry was announced to the American chemical society by B. G. Wilkes of the Mellon Institute of Industrial Research, Pittsburgh, and J. N. Wickert of the Carbide and Carbons Chemical Corporation, South Charleston, West Va.

It's no pun, but "wetter water" is made that way with alcohol. There's nothing intoxicating about

Very Sick Girl

Oak Park, Ill., Sept. 7.—(AP)—Patricia Maguire, whose strange "sleep" of five years and nine months has attracted international attention, was described today as a "very sick girl."

Her sister, Mrs. Gladys Hansen, said the pretty 31-year-old victim of sleeping sickness had developed two new complications—abdominal tumor and phlebitis—that are causing much alarm.

The latest complication, phlebitis or inflammation of the veins, has caused a thumb-sized painful swelling of a vein in her left leg just below the knee-cap, Mrs. Hansen said.

STATE HOSPITAL HONOR PATIENT DIES SUDDENLY

Harold Burkhardt, 21, honor patient at the Dixon state hospital, died suddenly last evening at the institution while on his way to the amusement hall where he was to play for a dancing party for patients as a member of the institution orchestra. He had been a patient at the institution since Feb. 12, 1935, where he was receiving treatment for epilepsy.

Harold was a member of the institution band and orchestra and assisted the registrar, Leland Mansfield, in the administration building. He was one of the most popular patients at the state hospital, and yesterday played with the band in the Labor Day parade in Dixon in the forenoon. Last evening he left his ward to go to the amusement hall where he was to have played in the orchestra for the weekly dancing party for patients. He suffered a seizure a short distance from the ward building and was found by other patients.

Dr. Kenyon B. Segner, coroner, conducted an inquest at the institution this morning at 9:30, the jury returning a verdict finding that death was due to epilepsy. About three years before coming to the local institution, the youth saved a girl from drowning in the Mississippi river at Quincy. The body was taken to his home at Barry, Ill., for burial.

FIVE MILITARY PRISONERS ARE RETAKEN TODAY

Chicago, Sept. 7.—(AP)—Two of five military prisoners who slugged the guard house superintendent and escaped from Fort Sheridan were captured early today within a half mile of the post.

The two recaptured were Richard B. Carroll, 18, and Edward A. Swanson, 25, both of Chicago. They were found hiding in underbrush by a detail of soldiers.

The three who were the object of a wide search were Lawrence B. Deacon, 24, Chicago; Harold Hensley, 22, Shumway, Ill.; and Richard Troy, 18, of Detroit.

Carroll was under a three-year prison sentence for desertion and robbery and the others were awaiting trial for various offenses. All five were to have been taken to Leavenworth penitentiary today.

Private Jack Curtin, 29, guard house superintendent, surprised the men last night just as they finished sawing through the bars. He was felled with a blow on the head. The men climbed through a window and fled.

They have reservations to return by plane to Reno tonight.

Mrs. Godde is divorcing Timothy Godde, former New York banker. Doyle established himself in Nevada to speed his divorce from Judith Allen of the films.

FORMER DIXON WOMAN FATALLY HURT IN CRASH

Aunt of Franklin Forman Dead; Dixon Boy Has Lucky Escape

Mrs. Jessie Ray of Rockford, once a resident of Dixon, widow of late Lorenzo Ray, a former hardware merchant in this city, and a sister of Mrs. Frank Forman of this city, died in Dwight hospital Sunday afternoon, the result of injuries sustained at about 10:30 o'clock that morning when the auto which she was driving, with her nephew, Franklin Forman, 14, of this city, as a passenger, turned over on a highway about six miles south of Dwight.

Mrs. Ray and the Dixon youth were enroute home from Rantoul, where they had visited Miss Charlotte Wold, a sister of the deceased, and according to accounts of the accident received here Mrs. Ray lost control of the car when it struck loose gravel at the side of the highway. She had started to pass a machine in front of her but pulled back into the northbound traffic lane when she saw a car approaching from the north.

The machine rolled over several times when Mrs. Ray lost control as the car struck the gravel. The Rockford woman was hurled out of the car as it rolled over, landing on the concrete pavement.

Her nephew threw himself onto the floor of the car when he saw it was going to turn over and escaped with minor cuts and bruises.

Mrs. Ray died in the Dwight hospital several hours after the accident from a fractured skull, fractured arm and internal injuries.

Mrs. Ray and Franklin left Rockford early Friday for Rantoul for a brief visit with his sister.

Born in Malta

Mrs. Ray, the former Jessie Wold, was born in Malta, Ill., Dec. 25, 1895, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Wold. She attended public school at Esmond and high schools at Sycamore and Dixon, and had resided in Rockford since 1914. She was married in February, 1928, to L. D. Ray. Her husband died Dec. 16, 1936.

Mrs. Ray's home was at 1020 North avenue, Rockford. She is survived by two sisters, Miss Charlotte Wold of Rantoul and Mrs. Gertrude Forman of Dixon, and a brother, Leaman Wold of Glen Ellyn.

Funeral services will be held at 2:30 P. M. Wednesday at the Burpee-Wood funeral home, 420 North Main street, Rockford, with Dr. John Gordon, pastor of Second Congregational church, officiating. Burial will be in Willwood Burial park, Rockford.

Car Damaged By Truck, Northside

A car belonging to A. H. Harris of Chicago, parked on North Galena avenue near Everett street, was badly damaged yesterday afternoon at 1 o'clock when a truck owned and driven by Robert Smith of Compton crashed into the side of the machine, from which the occupants had alighted but a short time before. The side of the Chicago car was badly damaged and police were called to investigate.

At 1:30 this morning Leo Orton of Sterling reported at the station that his car had been side-swiped by a machine owned and driven by Steve Fleming of this city at the curve on Seventh street and Chicago avenue. Both machines were damaged but the occupants escaped uninjured.

Sunday evening about 9:30, a car belonging to Edwin Knapp, Dixon, route 4, which was parked on East Third street near Ottawa, started west when the brakes failed to hold, crossed the street and crashed into another parked machine belonging to Frank Buchanan of Amboy. Both machines were damaged somewhat.

ROBBERS PILFER HUNTER LUMBER COMPANY OFFICE

Cracksmen forced the door of the safe at the Hunter Lumber Company office on College avenue north of First street some time Saturday night and after ransacking the contents, contented themselves with about $50 in cash. Entrance was gained by shattering a window pane and once of the inside the intruders apparently worked deliberately.

A spike nail and railroad spikes were used in battering the door of the safe. Window curtains were ripped down and used to deaden the sound of the operations. The window shades in the office facing First street were carefully drawn to obscure the glare of the electric light which was used during the battering of the safe door. A large number of checks which were found in the safe were examined and then replaced, none being taken. The robbery was discovered Sunday morning and reported to the police.

Officers who investigated stated that the intruders attempted to carry away a refrigerating unit, but that it apparently proved too heavy and they contented themselves with the cash which had been left in the safe.

"VICTIMS" RETURN AFTER MAN SAYS HE KILLED THEM

Children Attacked, Doctor Finds In Examining Them

Philadelphia, Sept. 7.—(AP)—After a man had told police he caused their deaths, Helen Wheelley, 6, and her brother, Frank Jr., 3, missing more than 24 hours, were found alive today near their home by their uncle, William Dillon.

The children at first appeared unharmed but Dr. John P. Turner, police surgeon, examined them and said they had been attacked.

They told police they had stayed with a woman who said she needed children. They spent the night at her house and were taken by a man in an automobile to the corner where they were found.

At first the children seemed unconcerned, but when they saw their parents both started to cry.

When the children were reported missing last night police picked up a man who gave his name as Philip Krah. He was questioned throughout the night and today Mayor S. Davis Wilson announced the man had told him and police officers that he caused the children's death in Fairmount Park. Mayor Wilson further said the man had told different stories as to what he did with the children's bodies.

An extensive police search was started. While this was in progress the children were found.

The children seem unconcerned when their uncle met them. They told him they had been left on the corner by someone who brought them there in the automobile.

Mayor Wilson took a personal interest in the case after the body of Nancy Glenn, 5, was found in a mud hole in North Philadelphia last night. The cause of her death has not yet been determined, but on the theory that she had been murdered Mayor Wilson offered a reward of $500 for the apprehension and conviction of any person who may have been involved in her death.

State Hospital Automatic Pump Repaired Again

The large automatic pump at the Dixon state hospital has been permanently repaired and service has been restored to normal, Dr. Warren G. Murray, managing officer, stated today. For several days water wagons and trucks hauled water from the city system to the institution. Two wagon tanks, the city flusher and two large steel tank trucks from the Borden company's plant hauled water from the hydrant at the north city limits on Brinton avenue, working night and day during the water famine.

With service restored to normal, Dr. Murray today stated that additional precautions should be taken to prevent a recurrence of the water famine. He suggested that an additional well with a separate pumping unit, a connection with the city water service and an additional well with a separate pumping unit, a connection with the city water service and an additional storage tank would prove invaluable in such an emergency.

Arrest Malta Man For Driving Auto After Drinking

Gay Henry of Malta, was sentenced 60 days in the county jail and his automobile license revoked for a period of six months by Judge Leon Zick in the county court this morning after the defendant had entered a plea of guilty to a charge of operating a motor vehicle while in an intoxicated condition. Henry was arrested Monday morning by State Officer Rex Flach following a head on crash, two and one-half miles north of Compton U. S. route 51.

The sentence was the first to be invoked under the provision of the state law which became effective July 1st as applied to drunken drivers. State's Attorney Edward Jones will notify the Illinois division of highways at Springfield, who in turn send notices to all law enforcement officers throughout the state, informing them of the court's ruling.

Wheat on Jump

Chicago, Sept. 7.—(AP)—Jumps of almost five cents a bushel in wheat prices here today were attributed to strained international relations in the Orient and Mediterranean.

The market responded quickly to a large volume of buying as traders returned to the pit from their Labor Day holiday. Trading was the most active it has been in recent weeks.

September wheat contracts rose to as high as $1.09 3-4 shortly before noon, up 4 1-2 cents above Saturday's close. Other contracts showed almost that much gain.

LABOR UNIONS STAGE PARADE HERE MONDAY

Labor organizations of Dixon affiliated with the American Federation of Labor, provided an excellent Labor Day parade and program Monday morning, which attracted a large gathering of people to the business section. The program was held in the court house square where Attorney Lloyd Scriven gave the address.

The parade formed at 9:30 on the parking space between Galena and Peoria avenues, the line of march being south on Galena avenue to Third street, west to Madison avenue, north to First street, east to Ottawa avenue, then south to Third street where the parade disbanded at the court house square.

Marshal of the Day P. J. Benodt led the procession, followed by a band composed of members of Dixon local, A. P. M. The local painters and decorators marched behind a float, then came the Carpenters' local, No. 790 marching behind a float. The plumbing firms of Kline & Heckman and Otto Witzleb were represented by attractive floats, which were followed by the Dixon Junior Legion drum and bugle corps and the Junior Auxiliary. The Dixon Forty and Eight float was next in line.

Laborers' local, No. 727 was represented by a float and several members marched. Bricklayers and Plasterers local No. 33 presented a float and several members marching. The Dixon state hospital band was next in line and was followed by Dixon local, No. 445. Teamsters and Chauffeurs, several of whom marched back of a float while others drove their trucks.

George T. Conroy, who was riding in the front seat with his brother who was driving, sustained a broken neck and chest injuries and is in a semi-conscious condition. The driver was badly bruised and suffered internal injuries, but after receiving attention at the Dixon hospital was able to return to Chicago.

SOLUTION OF PARK MURDER CASE CLAIMED

Chicago, Sept. 7.—(AP)—State's attorney's investigators claimed a solution today of the Grant Park moonlight murder on the basis of reported confessions by two men under arrest.

The confessions, said Assistant State's Attorney Emmett Moynihan, established robbery as the motive for the killing of Herbert W. Lee, Evanston merchant.

Lee was shot early in the morning of August 22 as he strolled through the downtown lakefront park with Grace Snyder, 22-year-old blonde party girl.

Moynihan and Assistant State's Attorney Harry Posner said the confessions were by Leonard Dosey, 31, and Albert Minella, 26. The prosecutors said the confessions implicated a third man as the actual slayer. Police said they were seeking Anthony Sappente, 27, for questioning.

Investigators said Dosey disclosed after his arrest in St. Louis that he and Miss Snyder were acquainted. They said witnesses had seen them together in a tavern about two hours before the slaying. She was held as a material witness.

UNKNOWN HIKER IS KILLED IN HI-WAY SMASH

Two Others Injured In Saturday Night Accident

An unidentified young hitch-hiker, whom Daniel and George T. Conroy of Chicago had picked up at Ashton, was almost instantly killed and the two others badly injured Saturday night about 5:30 in an automobile accident on Lincoln Highway at the Carlson curve five miles west of Dixon.

The Conroy brothers who were on their way to Boone, Iowa for the holiday were driving a Chrysler Airlow sedan which, according to State Highway Police Officer Rex Flach, was traveling at a high rate of speed at the curve. The car left the pavement, struck a culvert at the driveway entrance to the Carlson farm and turned over several times toward the south side of the highway before plunging through the fence into a field.

All three occupants were thrown through the top of the car and rolling over, the machine is believed to have run over the body of the unidentified man.

The hitch-hiker sustained a basal skull fracture, the right arm was broken in several places and he was badly bruised about the body.

REMINISCENCES

By H. G. REMINGTON

Dixon Telegraph Staff Writer and Former London Times Military and Feature Writer

My last remembrance of Archduke Rainer, uncle of the emperor of Austria-Hungary and perhaps the most lovable members of the Habsburg royal family, was immediately following his diamond wedding anniversary at Vienna when the aged man was renewing his youth in a magnificent automobile, an anniversary gift from his relatives. It was a new joy to him in more than one way, for it enabled him to cover long distances without much physical exertion.

The wedding anniversary also was quite an affair for the Habsburg family. The children of the various archdukes and archduchesses were happy in the receipt of five thousand crowns each from the Archduke Marie Catherine, wife of Archduke Rainer, and the stallkeepers in the Naschmarkt, the greatest of Vienna's open air markets, were delighted with the reception of their delegation sent to archducal palace to congratulate the royal pair.

Only four years the senior of Emperor Franz Josef, the archduke was popular with the people. His unaffected mingling with rich and poor endeared him to all. Archduchess Marie was scarcely less popular than her husband but unfortunately she was in indifferent health for some years and was less seen in public.

This imperial couple lived in an extremely simple way. They had a big palace in the Wieden, surrounded by extensive gardens, in which they both found a great deal of pleasure. They also had a delightful summer residence at Baden, fifteen miles outside Vienna, where they lived outdoors as much as possible. They were both great believers in fresh air and would take drives in almost any kind of weather.

At eighty-five the archduke still managed to rise at half past five in the morning, but this was an hour and a half later than his nephew, the emperor. Summer and winter alike, unless the weather was very bad, he took an early walk in the gardens and returned to breakfast with the archduke about half past seven. He was content with just a glass of milk at this time, but his wife took either tea or coffee with rolls—no butter.

After this frugal meal the archduke would proceed to enjoy the morning papers, for he was a great newspaper reader. He took the keenest interest in the world's happenings, and appreciated especially a good editorial or special article.

After finishing the papers he would receive the household officials and attend to all business connected with the administration of the palace and his estates.

The archduke was a wealthy man, for he outlived so many of his imperial relatives that he succeeded to some substantial heritages. Not the last part of his work was the investigation of appeals for assistance, for the archduke's charities were generous and widely distributed.

After all his business was finished the archduke took another walk in the gardens, or if the weather was bad read to his wife who was obliged to spend most of her time indoors.

Very frequently he would visit some studio, for he took the greatest interest in art and knew all the really important painters and sculptors in Vienna. And he was even more interested in science, having been for many years the active president of the Imperial Academy of Sciences.

He delighted especially in the society of scientists and received many of them in his palace, entertaining them at luncheons and dinners. The success which the Academy attained was largely due to his influential and energetic support.

General, Mr. Doctor, Mr. Baron, Mrs. Baroness and so on.

The archduke had always shown the greatest interest in the welfare of the market women. They have a hard time, exposed to the rain and snow and wind and sunshine, from early morning until dusk, although some of them have the satisfaction of accumulating what the Austrians consider quite snug fortunes. They live frugally and work hard, and it must also be confessed that they are usually ready to get the best of an inexperienced buyer, not alone in prices but also by palming off inferior fruit or vegetables.

But they dare not try these tricks with the ordinary Viennese housewife, for she would go at once to the market commissioner with her complaint. This official rules the markets with an iron hand and has very full powers of dealing with tricky or dishonest stallkeepers. In imperial days when any of these persons found themselves in trouble they were very quickly appealing to their "Mr. Archduke" for help. And it was always forthcoming. That is why the venerable archduke and archduchess had no more sincere diamond wedding congratulations than from the Frauen von Naschmarkt.

Things Are Brighter For John Barrymore

Los Angeles, Sept. 7.—(AP)—John Barrymore's yacht "Infanta," purchased eight years ago for $150,000, had a new skipper today, and thus was injected a shot of ozone into the actor's financial "breathing spell."

The "Infanta" was sold last week in federal bankruptcy court to E. P. Lawson, wealthy New Yorker, for $77,500.

Barrymore did not have a great deal of cash from the sale.

Walter C. Durst, Barrymore's attorney, said a $40,000 mortgage against the ship would be satisfied, also a government lien of $35,500 for past due income taxes.

Barrymore filed a petition in bankruptcy last March, setting forth his assets as $261,597.05, his liabilities as $161,503.82.

He emphasized he was solvent; he merely wanted a "breathing spell"—from such matters as a milk bill of $34.25, a florist's bill and a $20 debt to the New York Zoological society.

Since then, things have been looking up for Barrymore. He has a new and fat picture contract and also appears on the radio.

A west end London cafe is the scene of the playing of the only brass fiddle in the world. The fiddle is said to have been made of empty French 75mm shell cases by the owner, M. Tapponiere.

There are 250,000 varieties of flowering plants on the British Isles.

The archduke was as charitable as he was genial and his wife was no less so. They had no children, but they took the greatest interest in all children's charities. Never did a poor friendless child appeal to them for aid in vain. Probably ten thousand petitions for assistance were received at the Rainer palace every year. Every one was investigated and the deserving ones were always generously relieved.

Especially interesting was the friendly relationships which existed for many years between the archduke and the old women stallkeepers in the Naschmarkt. The market was along the road from the Rainer palace to the town and the archduke never passed there without many respectful greetings from these women.

Often one of the women would kiss his hand saying, "How do you do, Mr. Archduke?" In imperial Austria everybody, with the single exception of the emperor—and empress when there was one—was addressed as Mr. or Mrs. It was Mrs. Archduchess, Mr. Count, Mr.

FLY ROD FOR LAKE TROUT

By Harold Hollis

The fly caster will find the lake trout a splendid fighter whose endurance is not surpassed by that of any other fresh water game fish. Not a spectacular battler like the smallmouth bass, he has considerably more endurance. Many a four pound lake trout hooked on a fly will fight for 10 minutes and some can go much longer.

The fly fisherman gets his first chance at the lake in May just after the ice has left the lakes. If he doesn't get into trout country before mid-June he will have to wait until October for another chance as during the summer the fish is in deep water where only trolling tackle can reach him.

The best places to cast a fly for lake trout are along the rocky shorelines or islands where there is a fairly gradual drop from shallow to deep water. In such places the fish are found within a few feet of the surface where they can see a fly rod lure. It is necessary, however, to send the lure somewhat deeper than in bass fishing and so a heavy spinner should be used. A plain spinner will take lake trout but the spinner-fly combination will take more. The more conspicuous the lure the more effective it will be.

Stout tackle is advisable, for although most of the fish taken with a fly rod will be in the four or five pound class there is always the chance that a really large one may be hooked. A bass weight fly rod should be used and the leader should be about 8 or 10 pound test. It is well to have some backing line on the reel for one of these trout can take out many yards of line on a dash for the bottom.

Almost any sort of a fly will do. Red and white flies are as good as any. I know of only one case when the lakers showed any selectiveness and that was in a Minnesota lake where they wouldn't look at a fly except a squirrel streamer.

After casting your lure let it settle a foot or two below the surface and retrieve it rather slowly. If you raise a fish but do not hook him try for him again immediately, giving him a little more time to take the lure. I have known a fish to follow a lure four or five times before I hooked him.

Taking fish is largely a matter of locating them. They often show a preference for the windy shores. Fishing for lake trout last fall we took fish almost as fast as we could cast from the windy shore of a small island but were unable to get a strike on the protected sides. It is advisable to have a guide for he will locate fishing water for you in the shortest possible time.

The casting rod is also effective for lake trout, in fact it will probably take more fish than the fly rod. The best lure is a wabbling spoon with a brass or copper finish but wooden plugs are also effective. Fishing for muskies in Grant Lake last fall and using large jointed plugs I took one 20 pound trout and two 10 pounders. These trout gave me just as much sport as the muskies I caught.

THE JONES FAMILY GO A TROUTING

By O. Warren Smith

I just want to spin a just-so story, which might be entitled, "Trouting at its Best." There is just one thing I would rather do than catch trout, and that is eat them out under the open sky. There is one thing my wife loves better than fishing, and that is talking. She can talk with her eyes shut or standing on her head. When we go a fishing, she carries her tating and I carry a book. We just don't give a hoot—two hoots—whether we take fish or not, we are out for a good time. Just because taking fish is not the end of our fishing the fool trout are eager to commit suicide on my hook and I find it hard to shoe them away. We ruin our angling by fishing not wisely, but too well.

Behold my better Two-Thirds and I wending our way up a trout stream, she sitting down to tating when I reach a particularly likely looking pool. (She always takes a position from which she can exercise woman's prerogative, give unasked advice.) I am out in the stream waist-deep, for you can do best casting so. My tackle is light to the point of danger—3 1-2 ounce rod and the rest of weight to preserve the unities. Fish sometimes run large in my stream—rainbow up to 5 and 6 pounds. Just above me a ledge of rock angers the stream, and it curls and snarls down a long slide, working itself into a sweat of foam. Well I know the place, for I have taken many a good fish from the lower pool. Out goes my Royal Coachman, a No. 16, and is met the instant it touches the water with a gleam of silver lightning. Bing! I strike. "Lost him!" says my wife. "Hook broke!" I exclaim.

I waded to the shore, take out a thin volume of Shakespeare and read until a whole hour has passed. I just will not let that accident spoil my day. Finally (don't imagine that I was impatient!) the self-imposed hour over, I bend on another fly just like the first. I cast and lo! that fly too, is broken.

Of the 7,495 fox fur farms in Canada, 2,408 are situated in the province of Quebec.

off I see a great light. That is no ordinary fish. There are strange thrills running up my arm, tingling along my spine, reverberating in my brain. But claimy I wade ashore, and with all the deliberation in the world sit me down with my book. (That some of it is sheer foolarway my wife knows right well.) Still I read Shakespeare, while an inquisitive chickadee peers over my shoulder. An hour passes. I read on. Wife begins to fidget, glancing riverward. I read on, taking pains with expression and enunciation. At last she interrupts. "Aren't you going to try that fish?"

Obediently, happily, for I have outworn her patience, I rise, bend on a No. 8 fly, step into the water, make one or two preliminary casts to limber up. Then, holding my breath, I make the throw. Out shoots the fly, direct, perfect, descends to the surface and floats for a second. The water parts and a dark snout appears. I strike, not too violently this time, and I am in a glorious fish. What a battle! Here, there, everywhere over the face of the pool. Into the air, silver water raining from his gleaming sides. The battle is well fought on both sides, if I do say it; but good tackle and luck win. I receive his honor into the waiting landing net, and wade ashore trying to walk and talk nonchalantly. "See," I say, "the two broken hooks are in his jaw!" Laugh, darn you, Reader!

I kindle a fire, and when it has burned down to coals, and the potatoes are nearly done, the water ready for coffee, I place those rainbow steaks in the hot bacon fat and do the cooking. We eat, then my wife tates and I sprawl on the earth until the declining sun admonishes me that it is time to return to camp. That is the way the Jones family fish trout.

AAA APPROVES POTATO PACTS

Marketing Agreements For Nine States To Increase Returns

Washington, Sept. 7.—(AP)—The agricultural adjustment administration has announced tentative approval for federal potato marketing agreement in nine states.

Officials said the marketing program were designed "to increase returns to potato growers in commercial late potato producing areas."

The four identical agreements provide for producers and shippers in (1) Maine; (2) Michigan, Minnesota, Wisconsin and North Dakota; (3) Colorado, Nebraska and Wyoming; and (4) Idaho.

Copies of the agreements will be submitted to handlers for their signature and a referendum among growers will be conducted shortly to determine "whether they favor the issuance of orders making the marketing agreement binding upon all handlers of potatoes produced in the four areas."

The agreements would prohibit interstate shipments of potatoes smaller than one and one-half inches in diameter and below requirements for "U. S. No. 2 grade."

Officials said the marketing agreements would become effective if signed by half of the handlers in the areas and then given final approval by Secretary Wallace.

The secretary can issue an order making the regulations binding on all potato handlers in the areas if two-thirds of the producers vote for them.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCHES

"Man" was the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, September 5.

The Golden Text was, "God created man in his own image, in the image of God created he him; male and female created he them" (Gen. 1:27).

Among the citations which comprised the Lesson-Sermon was the following from the Bible: "As for me, I will behold thy face in righteousness: I shall be satisfied, when I awake, with thy likeness" (Psalms 17:15).

The Lesson-Sermon also included the following passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "The Scriptures inform us that man is made in the image and likeness of God. Man is idea, the image of Love; he is not physique" (p. 475).

By DEWE PEARSON and ROBERT A. ALLEN

"In view of these matters," the SEC concluded, "we think it is in the best interest of everybody concerned that you delay the sale of your bonds for another few weeks."

What happened at the offices of the company is not known, but the next day the SEC received another amendment transferring the $344,846 back to reserve for replacements and eliminating the Halsey, Stuart deal.

Forthwith the commission approved the stymied registration statement.

CAMEL'S COSTLIER TOBACCOS ?

The Best Answer is This...

Camels are the Largest-Selling cigarette in America

Year in and year out, Camel pays millions more for finer tobaccos. And smokers do appreciate the added pleasure this means to them!

CAMEL'S use of choicer, costlier tobaccos has been the subject of much discussion. The question has often been raised as to whether or not people could tell the difference.

The way smokers feel gives the answer! Camels are the largest-selling cigarette in America...or the world.

If you are not a Camel smoker, perhaps you, too, would enjoy a cigarette with a richer, cooler taste. Turn, then, to Camels. Put them to the severest test—smoke them steadily. As you enjoy Camels, you'll realize how true it is that there is no substitute for costlier tobaccos.

Costlier Tobaccos in a Matchless Blend

Camels are a matchless blend of finer, MORE EXPENSIVE TOBACCOS—Turkish and Domestic. Skillful blending brings out the full flavor of these choice tobaccos.

EVELYN CHANDLER, figure skater: "What an asset good digestion is! I smoke Camels during meals and after. They do help to keep my digestion in order."

GENE SARAZEN, golf champion: "I've walked, I guess, thousands of miles around golf courses with Camels. They never throw my nerves out of tune."

JOANNA DE TUSCAN, fencing champion: "I enjoy smoking so much—and I find that with Camels I can smoke often. Camels don't give me ragged nerves."

FRED McDANIEL, Texas rancher: "Me and Camels have been getting along mighty fine now for over 15 years. I never saw the beat of Camels for tastiness."

OTIS BARTON, underwater explorer: "After a dive in the 'bathysphere'—or any time I'm tired—I smoke a Camel. I get a 'lift' with a Camel."

MRS. JOHN W. ROCKEFELLER, JR., society aviatrix: "I prefer Camels for steady smoking. I smoke as many as I please—they don't get on my nerves."

RAY WINTERS, radio announcer: "Camels suit me! And that goes for my throat especially. Can't remember when Camels ever scratched my throat."

HERB LEWIS, Detroit ice hockey star: "I go for Camels in a big way. After an exhausting game—extra periods and all—they give me a 'lift'."

IRENE SHERWOOD, shopper: "Noon-time is one of my busiest times. That's why 'for digestion's sake'—smoke Camels! means so much to me."

SID WETZEL, tunnel engineer: "I work in the face of danger. My sentiments are—'I'd walk a mile for a Camel!' Camels don't frazzle my nerves."

MRS. VINCENT MURRAY, homemaker: "Believe me, I appreciate how mild Camels are! Camels don't have any 'cigarette' after-taste."

DAILY HEALTH

BY DR. IAGO GALDSTON

SAFE MOTHERHOOD

So much attention has been centered of late on the obstetrical care of the pregnant woman, and the deficiencies noted therein, that we are in danger of forgetting that safe motherhood is properly the reward of years of care and concern. Certainly an incompetent and bungling obstetrician can do irreparable harm.

On the other hand, neglect of the female child during her growing years may cause her pelvis to become deformed by rickets, thus rendering labor difficult. The overworked and undernourished woman may enter upon her pregnancy lacking in essential reserves. The uninformed woman may fail to consult her physician early during her pregnancy, and thus come to term with the liabilities of neglected complications hanging over her.

Properly construed antenatal care should begin long before pregnancy commences, since the woman's adjustment to the physiological task of "building a new being" must largely be influenced by the state of her health and nutrition for years past.

As soon as pregnancy is suspected one of the two dependable pregnancy tests is warranted. This test when positive helps in checking on a number of possible complications, including tubal pregnancy.

A Wasserman test to rule out the possible existence of syphilis is always warranted, even when there is neither the history of an infection, nor the record of any suggestive symptoms.

The "capacity" of the pelvis may now be gauged by means of X-ray, and its dimensions can be compared to those of the fetal head.

The toxemias of pregnancy are now regarded as arising primarily from disturbances in metabolism. Their prevention is largely favored by the eating of a good mixed diet, containing fresh foods, with plenty of iron calcium and vitamins. The specific diet in terms of "what foods and how much" should be prescribed in each case by the physician in charge, and should be followed scrupulously.

Any untoward developments such as a sudden gain of weight, especially after the 28th week of pregnancy, spotting or bleedings, severe headache, disturbances in vision, nausea and vomiting, should be promptly reported.

EMOTIONS AND THE BODY

Eliphaz the Temanite, chiding Job for his unbridled lamentations, wisely said "Vexation killeth the foolish man, and jealousy slayeth the silly one." The ancients fully appreciated the influence of emotions on bodily functions, and modern science has produced numerous proofs to support and validate their convictions.

The worth of these proofs lies in more than the honor paid to the wisdom of the ancients. They point the way to the avoidance and remedy of numerous ailments and disabilities. Indigestion or dyspepsia, for example, can in many instances be avoided by good mental hygiene, and can be cured by competent psychotherapy more effectively than by the use of drugs or special diets.

Every phase of bodily function is subject to the emotions. Respiration changes with emotional tone and tension. The anxious individual breathes irregularly, and sighs frequently. Mankind has practically always placed "feeling" in and about the heart, and recent studies have shown that the heart size and also the blood volume passing through it are changed by deep emotions.

Heart pains due to grief may arise from the temporary impairment of blood circulation through the heart musculature. "Eating one's heart out" is therefore likely to be more than a poetic license.

The gastrointestinal tract is notoriously responsive to the emotions. The secretions of the stomach and intestines may become excessive or inadequate, and the motor activities of the various portions of the digestive tract may be altered radically by emotional strains. All forms of constipation are frequently traceable to neurosis.

While in most instances intense emotions alter or modify bodily functions only temporarily, sustained and prolonged emotional strain may produce lasting functional changes, and even permanent organic damage.

Good mental hygiene is therefore a basic essential of good physical health. Good mental hygiene can be acquired. Too few patients turn to their physicians for this brand of medicine. Pills and potions dominate excessively in the minds of many. Good in themselves, their effectiveness could many times be heightened by a leisurely discussion with the doctor on "what REALLY troubles you."

CHICAGO BEARS' SCALP ADDED TO ALL-STAR BELT

Dallas, Texas, Sept. 7.—(AP)—Chesty Art Guepe, a little man who learned all the football answers at Marquette University, had his revenge today and the College All-Stars possessed a sweet 6 to 0 decision over the professional Chicago Bears.

The loquacious 155-pound half-back, who wasn't good enough to break into the lineup when the All-Stars defeated the professional champion Green Bay Packers at Chicago Wednesday, personally applied the touch that buried the Bears in the mud of the Cotton Bowl before 25,000 rain-soaked fans.

And Art almost didn't make the grade at Dallas. It was only after Nebraska's Lloyd Cardwell had withdrawn that Guepe was added to the roster.

Inserted as the second period started, Guepe opened up with a 18-yard punt return, wiggled 38 yards on a tackle slice before being dropped from behind by Ray Noltling's flying tackle on the four-yard stripe and came back minutes later with an eye-filling, 24-yard gallop for the lone touchdown.

Again in the third period he speared one of Slingin' Sam Baugh's 20-yard darts. This time Beattie Feathers, Bear halfback, brought Guepe to his knees on the pros' seven-yard marker.

Tonight the Bears meet the Oklahoma All-Stars at Oklahoma City.

Greetings

(Telegraph Special Service)

Wykoff, Minn.—Huntress Charles Ross and Reginald Everett Kested, employees of The Dixon Evening Telegraph at Dixon, Ill., had reason, Saturday evening, to know how their fame and that of their paper had spread. As they entered this city on their way to Minneapolis to spend their double holiday, they were met at the city limits by the town's fourteen-piece silver cornet band, which hailed them with that stirring melody of greeting, "Get Going with the Wind."

DR. HIGH LOOKS AT SECOND NEW DEAL

Dr. Stanley High, whose job was to bring the clergy and other pious persons into the New Deal fold last November through offices of the Good Neighbor league, recently wrote in the Saturday Evening Post concerning the second New Deal. Dr. High recently resigned from the Good Neighbor league and now may write unfettered:

"But the second New Deal differs from the first, not only because it has no emergency excuse, but because it has a different purpose. The measures of 1933 and thereafter had to do, for the most part, with the nation's economic structure. The measures of 1937, however much they may be appealed for on economic grounds, have to do with the nation's political structure. Their chief significance does not lie in the fact that they involve the repair of economic damage or the remedy of economic abuses, but in the fact that they involve an alteration in our method of government. Their passage will legalize executive government, as distinguished from our traditional three-part system of government by the executive, the legislature, and the judiciary. For some time the tendency has been to center more and more authority in Washington. The second New Deal goes much farther than that and centers authority in the White House."

That appears to be a fair distinction between the measures accepted for the emergency and the measures designed to make America over after late European patterns. The country as a whole accepted the emergency laws. For our own part, we accepted the NRA as a "spread the work" measure, without any idea that it ever would stand the test of the supreme court. In fact, we gave it as our opinion that the part of wisdom would be to accept the measure for the designated period of two years, for which it was enacted, if we must have it, and then to permit it to expire without any litigation.

That would have been a real "emergency" spirit. But the NRA was no sooner on the books, obtained as an emergency measure, than it was proclaimed from Washington that we were going to keep it. When those in authority so violated the terms under which passage of the law was obtained and support of the public was solicited, we felt that public confidence thereby had been surrendered, and we withdrew ours.

So it was all down the line. Emergencies were proclaimed and legislation obtained on that basis. Then steps were taken to make it permanent as far as possible. Making it permanent, of course, involved change in the political system, and the changes were launched by President Roosevelt in what Dr. High calls the second New Deal, and adds:

"It is not, therefore, opposition to any specific proposal, but a growing realization that this is the objective of all these measures that accounts for the insurgency of many heretofore administration regulars and the undercover uneasiness of a much larger number who have not yet spoken up. A good many members of congress who were convinced that the nation's economic system needed overhauling will not concede that its political system needs to be changed. All the president's recently introduced and so-called 'key proposals' plainly involve such a change."

He refers to the purpose to make the supreme court and all the quasi-judicial independent organisms such as the Interstate Commerce Commission responsive to the president's will.

Descriptive of the mood of members of congress as adjournment was impending, Dr. High offers the following:

"Between the first of April and the first of July, the mood and temper of congress underwent a remarkable change. The shadow of the White House still reached to the capitol. But it was a much less ominous shadow. Recently, the happiest and most confident men on the hill have been the president's former backers who, on some or all these pending measures, have deserted him; and the surliest and most uncertain have been his willy-nilly supporters. This, I think, is not because the president's opponents have discovered any special virtue in merely opposing him, but because they have found it exhilarating to cut the apron strings."

Certainly, after four years of rubber-stamping not merely the orders of the president, but laws the congressmen suspect the president never had read, men who regard themselves as statesmen, delegated by their constituents to write the laws of the nation, do find it exhilarating to cut the apron strings and once more be statesmen instead of mere rubber-stampers and errand boys for their constituents.

Among the concluding paragraphs of Dr. High is this one:

"One frequently hears it said on Capitol Hill that the president's Democratic opponents have crossed the Rubicon. It would be nearer the truth to say that the president has crossed his. He has made it clear what his aims are. He has refused to modify them. His actions indicate the sources from which he expects to get the strength to put them through. How far he will go, it is not possible to say. It is perfectly plain, however, that he will not go back."

Yet, we may recall without much effort the hooting that greeted the assertion of Dr. William Wirt that one of the young men engaged in making America over declared:

"We now have Mr. Roosevelt out in the middle of the stream, and he can not turn back."

The Roosevelt technique in which he played on "emergencies" to put over the first New Deal is failing him in putting over the second New Deal. We may look for him to find new "emergencies" when congress convenes again.

ALSHOUSE IS CHAMPION AT HORSESHOES

Northwest Tourney Winner Unbeaten At Lowell Park

Glen Alshouse won the northwest Illinois horseshoe tournament at Lowell park Monday afternoon with a limited field of contestants, the winner maintaining his record of many weeks standing in which he has failed to bow in defeat. The veteran tosser won four straight games and the title of champion of the Lowell park course. In addition he claims the title for the northwest section of the state inasmuch as he has not been defeated for the honor and in yesterday's tournament, stood ready to defend the title. During his four games, Glen fired 14 straight ringers after warming up and with the contest under way.

Howard Alshouse, brother of the champ, was a close second with three games won and but one loss. He furnished the strongest competition for his elder brother and gives promise of becoming champ soon. Lyle Fordham experienced some difficulty in locating the stakes and his control was shaky, giving him two games won and an equal number lost, to capture third place. Felix Benson, a veteran at the game and who was in charge of the tournament, which was sponsored by Ed Graybill, concessioner at the park, fell before the more youth entries and won one game, losing three. C. Hopkins, of Walnut lost all four of his sets.

Other Horseshoers Watch
Several other shoe tossers watched from the side lines but did not enter the competition after witnessing the sure-fire pitching of Glen Alshouse. A delegation of horse shoe tossers from the Lincoln park course in Chicago were present and gave an exhibition, but did not enter the contest.

The local tossers have organized a team with a view of renewing interest in the game and hope to meet Sterling's best pitchers at the Lowell park courts at an early date. It is expected that games with other teams from the northwest Illinois section and possible a meeting with a picked team of Lincoln park twisters from Chicago, will be scheduled later in the fall.

HORSEMAN STAKE TOPS FAIR CARD AT INDIANAPOLIS

Indianapolis, Sept. 7.—(AP)—A fast track and closely-matched horses gave promise of an interesting program of Grand Circuit racing at the Indiana state fairgrounds today.

Topping the card of four events was the $2000 Horseman Stake, a two-year-old trot. Promoters (Br C by Protector—Evansong by Nelson Dillon), with Marshall at the reins, was the p-race favorite. Others slated to start were Patience, Gladys, McElwyn, Vesta Hanover and Earls Princess Martha.

Francis Dale (Cy C by Hal Dale—Francis San Francisco by San Francisco) received principal mention for the Horseman Stake, three-year-old pace, a $1,689.48 event. Al entered were Ennamlite, Avonale, William Grattan and Lindale. Favored for the $1,200, 2:15 trot, the Governor's stake, was Craftsman (Br C, 4 by Protector—Symphonica by Guy Axworthy), but Streamline, Linworthy, Priscia Watts and Pat River were capable of providing stiff opposition.

Major mention for the 2:12 pace, a $1,000 event, went to Lone Ace (Ch G by Red Ace—Ernestine Wilson, by Joe Wilson).

Southland, with Egan at the reins, captured the $3,141.17 Horseman Futurity three-year-old trot yesterday, main attraction on the opening card here. Southland won the first heat in 2:04, and the third in 2:03.

Other circuit winners yesterday were Addie Hanover, two-year-old pace; Cicada, two-year-old trot, and Dominion Grattan, 2:09 pace.

Moline Captures Three-Eye League Baseball Honors

Moline, Ill., Sept. 7.—(AP)—The 1937 Three-Eye League playoff championship rested with the Moline Plovers today as a result of their 3-0 win last night over Clinton, Iowa, second half champions. A first inning assault backed by Higbe's four-hit pitching brought victory, the fourth of the series for Moline against two for Clinton. The winners made but five hits off Nahem, but used them to advantage.

Score by innings:
Clinton . . . 000 000 000—3 4 1

Dorothy Larson Repeats Labor Day Regatta Win, Gets Park Board Trophy

Hundreds See Meet At Lowell Beach Despite Chill

Miss Dorothy Larson of Rockford gained permanent possession of the Dixon Park Board silver trophy cup Sunday afternoon by winning the Class B outboard motorboat races at Lowell park. Bob Shanhouse, also of Rockford, became the possessor of the Beir trophy and the Trein gold cup for a period of one year, and will defend his title in the class C and free-for-all events next year in an effort to gain permanent possession of the two fine prizes. The Beir silver trophy was awarded to the winner of the class C races and the Trein gold cup in the free-for-all race.

Despite a chilly wind, an exceptional crowd thronged the river bank at the park to witness the racing program which was sponsored by Edward M. Graybill, concessioner at the park, and was amply repaid by the fine program of events.

The course in front of the park is approximately four and one-half miles and despite of the wind was smooth and no accidents occurred. Miss Larson led the field in the first heat of the class B races and finished the stretch in 6:59.2. John Larson, Bill Johnson, Bob Myers and Harry Chamberlain trailed in the first heat. Chamberlain of Sterling led the field in the second heat with Miss Larson a close second.

Shanhouse Vitor
In the class C race, Bob Shanhouse of Rockford, while experiencing some motor trouble in the first heat, led the field, followed in order by Chamberlain, Myers, Monze, D. Larson and John Larson. Miss Larson failed to get the motor started in the first heat and John Larson was forced out in the third lap by motor trouble, limiting the field to four contestants in the second heat. The time of the first heat was 6:25.

Shanhouse sped around the course in 6:06 in the second heat, pursued closely by Harry Chamberlain with Myers and Monge trailing in order.

In the free-for-all event, Shanhouse spurred out to a good lead at the starting gun which he maintained throughout, followed by Chamberlain, Myers, Monge and Bill Johnson, the time being 6:55. The second heat was but two seconds faster, the boats finishing with Shanhouse leading; Chamberlain, second; Don Myers, and Bill Johnson. Monge was forced to leave the race when he experienced motor trouble at the west turn in the first lap. Joe Johnson of Rockford was the judge of the race.

The program was one of the best that has been held at the park and the public was acquainted with the system of conducting the races by the addition of Chester Barriage's public address system. During the afternoon the Oregon juvenile band furnished a fine program of selections.

At the battle of Arbelia, Alexander the Great was only 23 years old.

Here and There In Sports World

By EDDIE BRIETZ

New York, Sept. 7.—(AP)—Tommy Farr is nothing less than a riot on the air. . . . You should see the guy's fan mail after last week's debut (pronounced by Tommy 'debut') . . . Clover fields are ahead for the gritty Welshman. . . . Tennessee and Kentucky have been feuding at football since 1899, but never signed a contract. . . . Our scouts at Forest Hills report this Bobby Riggs has plenty on the ball and they don't mean maybe. Baseball gossip has it that Tony Lazzeri of the Yanks is definitely headed to manage the Cleveland Indians and that Lefty O'Doul (you know, the man in the green suit) will leave San Francisco and move into Burleigh Grimes' job in Brooklyn.

What's your offer now against another subway World's Series? . . . They say the National Football league is putting the pressure on the New York Giants to trim the Eastern All-Stars tomorrow night. . . . If the collieries take the money boys again, pro football prestige will hit the toboggan. . . . No wonder President Joe Carr has a bad case of the jitters out there in Columbus, O-h-i-o. . . . Harry Danning of the Giants had to get permission from his Aabbi to play yesterday. . . . Everett Marshall, recognized in some 30 states as heavyweight burping champ, says the mat game needs a dictator like Judge Landis. . . . Everett is partly right, anyway—the game needs something and definitely.

See us if we're wrong: The starting backfield for the All-Stars tomorrow night will be Larue of Pitt, Duke of Fordham, Meyer of Army and Pury of Columbia. . . . After looking at the Farr-Louis fight pictures, several Texas sports editors adjourned to the nearest pub and unanimously voted Louis earned no better than a draw. . . . (Clem McCarthy, the demand announcer, will please note) . . . The recent row between Burleigh Grimes and Umpire Larry Goetz was brought to a head when Grimes remarked he once knew a guy who ate garlic for a purpose. . . . Now he may have to call on President Ford Frick and explain exactly what he meant and why.

Football Scrimmage Is Fatal to Youth

Clarion, Ia., Sept. 7.—(AP)—Doctors today started an investigation to determine what caused the death last night of Irvin Neilsen, 17-year-old Clarion high school senior, who died in a hospital of injuries suffered two hours earlier on the first day of football practice.

Hospital attendants said a preliminary investigation showed the youth died of head injuries.

He fell in practice on the high school field, his head striking the ground. Teammates said he got up, apparently uninjured, but he slumped to the ground a few minutes later and was rushed to the hospital, where he died.

New Record Setter Holds Pistol Title

Camp Perry, O., Sept. 7.—(AP)—A new record-setter today held the national individual pistol championship won in the national rifle matches here.

He is E. E. Jones, Los Angeles policeman, whose score of 277 out of a possible 300 was one point above the previous record set last year by Charles Askins, Jr., of the U. S. border patrol, El Paso, Tex.

Jones defeated 275 other entrants yesterday to win the match which is fired over the 50-yard slow fire.

MERMAIDS FAIL TO CRACK A. A. U. TANK RECORDS

Miss Katherine Rawls Wins Eleven Gold Victory Medals

San Francisco, Sept. 7.—(AP)—A four-day attack of America's leading feminine swimmers and divers left national A. A. U. senior women's records unscathed today.

Four of 11 gold victory medals went to pretty Miss Katherine Rawls of Fort Lauderdale, Fla. Miss Rawls annexed the 880-yard free-style title, her fourth A. A. U. victory, yesterday.

Her time was 11:44.2 minutes. Some 25 yards back was 13-year-old Gladys Callen of New York. Doris Brennan of Olneyville, R. I., finisher third.

Miss Rawls' other triumphs were in the 440-yard, one-mile free-style and 300-meter medley.

Lone representative of the Miami Beach club, Miss Rawls scored 28 points, placing the club second to the women's swimming association of New York, which had 31 points.

The women's athletic association team of New York won the 300-meter medley relay event in 4:04.1 minutes, and a Los Angeles trio placed second.

Ruth Jump of Los Angeles won the platform diving title with 96.1 points. Thelma Dunn of Los Angeles took second, and Margaret Reinhold of Tampa, Fla., was third.

Adolph Kelfer of Chicago bettered the 50 and 75 yard backstroke records in exhibitions. He was timed at 27.5 seconds in the 50-yard distance and 43.4 seconds at 75 yards.

O'Hara Fighting Removal As Race Track Director

Providence, R. I., Sept. 7.—(AP)—Undaunted by racing commission assertions that he was "definitely out" Walter E. O'Hara said he planned today another legal move to block the commission's order for his removal as managing director of the Narragansett race track.

In a statement to newspapermen, O'Hara declared he would file a petition in Supreme Court to prevent enforcement of the ouster order.

The commission ordered O'Hara's removal early Saturday on the ground that he had "intimidated and interfered with State Steward James Doorley" in the latter's performance of his duties.

The commission scored one point yesterday when the management of the track consented to Kiernan's demand, backed by Governor Robert E. Quinn, that the track's books be viewed by state auditors.

The audit started at the close of the Labor Day racing program and will be continued today.

U. S. UNCOVERS TENNIS TALENT

Von Cramm Declares America Has Too Many Net Stars

Forest Hills, N. Y., Sept. 7.—(AP)—The older inhabitants around the West Side Tennis club are of the opinion the current national championships have brought to light more really promising young talent than any other tournament in many a year.

"You have too many fine players," breathed Baron Gottfried Von Cramm yesterday after Hal Surface of Kansas City had carried him to four tough sets before a record Labor Day throng.

The baron, having been taken to four sets in a previous match by another unknown, Don McNeill, of Oklahoma City, and having watched his teammate, Henner Henkel, succumb to Martin Buxby, who once won the Connecticut state tennis crown, undoubtedly feels that a visitor to this country gets ganged up on.

Wood vs. Parker
The outstanding tussle today looked to be that between the two former "boy wonders," Sidney Wood, Jr., and Frankie Parker.

In the three other matches scheduled to pare the upper bracket down to the quarter-finals, Don Budgie met Yvon Petra of France, Joel Hunt opposed Jiro Yamagishi of Japan, and John Van Ryn played Charlie Harris of West Palm Beach.

Things were rocking along about as expected in the women's division, with the "Big Four"—Alice Marble, Anita Lizana, Helen Jacobs and Jadwiga Jedzejowska—getting closer and closer to their final battle royal in the semi-finals.

DETROIT CRAFT WINS SPEEDBOAT GOLD CUP RACE

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 7.—(AP)—Herbert Mendelsohn, of Detroit, whose cigar-shaped, white-hulled Notre Dame yesterday successfully stood off a foreign effort to win the 34-year-old gold cup that symbolizes the speed boat championship of North America, began grooming his craft today for possible entry in the President's Cup race on the Potomac river September 25-26.

Mendelsohn's craft kept the famous cup at the Detroit Yacht club by outlasting 10 other boats, all but four of which gave way under the gruelling punishment of the 30-mile heats at a speed that at times exceeded 70 miles an hour. She established a new record of 63.675 miles an hour for the 90-mile race, and set up a new 30-mile heat mark of 68.645 miles an hour.

The old records for the race made by Horace E. Dodge's Delphine in 1931, and 60.886 for the heat made at the same time by George Reis' El Lagarto.

The foreign challenge for the trophy failed probably because of the unfamiliarity of Count Teo Rossi of Italy with the American speed boat racing style and the hard luck that overtook Maurice Vasseur of France in his Rafale VI.

Rafale after considerable difficulty getting under way lost her rudder in the heavy wash of other speeding hydroplanes.

GIANTS HEAD WEST; IN LEAD THREE GAMES

Cubs Slip Behind Another Notch Over Holiday

By DREW MIDDLETON

Associated Press Sports Writer
Westward the path of the pennant takes its way with the game guys from Coogan's Bluff plumb in the middle of the road.

Just about everything possible in baseball happened for 245,000 major league fans who saw yesterday's 16 games. Lefty Lee Grissom of the Reds pitched a one-hitter—and lost. Ray Phebus—of course you don't know who he is—hurled a one-hitter for Washington and won. Joe DiMaggio slapped homer No. 40; Hank Greenberg powdered No. 33.

And when it was all over, what was the news? The Giants had won two and the Cubs had split. The New Yorkers start an 18-game trip to hostile ballfields tomorrow with a three-game lead.

Supported by the stalwart arms of Cliff Melton and Hal Schumacher, the Giants drubbed the Phillies, 6 to 2 and 9 to 3. Honest John McCarthy hit two home runs; Harry Danning got another. Mel Ott extended his hitting streak at 21 straight games and drew closer to the coveted 300 mark.

The thunderous cheers that greeted the conquerors were matched in Chicago by the moans of the north siders. The last place Reds came very close to trimming the Cubs twice. They won the opener, 7-3 behind Paul Derringer. Grissom checked the Cubs in the nightcap until the eighth when Phil Caveretta's pop fly double, a sacrifice, a wild pitch and a long fly plus some shoddy infield play handed the Chicagoans two runs and the ball game, 2-1.

Pirates, Cards Split
The Pirates and Cardinals, the only other clubs even faintly in the race, split. The Cards won one behind Bob Welland, 4-1, and Arky Vaughan's homer took the second for the Bucs, 5-4. The Dodgers won behind Luke Hamlin, 2-1, in 10 innings and then bowed before Lou Fette as that admirable and agile rookie won his 17th victory.

Young Mr. Phebus, a 28 year old right-hander from Clovis, Calif., by way of Chattanooga, brought his talent to the attention of the American league by blanking the Red Sox, behind the venerable Lefty Grove, had won the opener, 6-2. Phebus fanned four and walked seven.

The Yankees had little trouble with the Philadelphia Athletics, taking two, 6-3, and 2-1. Signor DiMaggio and Ivy Paul Andrews, who pitched a neat three-hit game, figured prominently in the proceedings. The Bronx Bombers kept pace with their competition (heh heh) as the Tigers shook down the Browns, 10-9 and 5-2, with Greenberg and Pete Fox leading the way.

Bob Feller fanned nine, allowed four hits and tripled to give the Indians an even break, 2-1, after Ted Lyons had halted the Tribe in the morning game for the White Sox by the same score.

Japanese Decide To Continue Plans For Olympic Games

Tokyo, Sept. 7.—(AP)—After a day of hurried conferences, the Olympic organizing committee tonight decided to proceed with its plans for holding the international games at Tokyo in 1940.

Reports from usually well-informed sources that the government had withdrawn its support from the games because of the undeclared war with China were branded as false tonight by Akira Kazami, chief secretary of the cabinet.

The central government, he said, is willing to contribute 4,300,000 yen (about $1,250,000) to the cost of the games.

Britain's Birth Rate Taking An Alarming Drop

Nottingham, Eng. Sept. 7.—(AP)— Britain's unborn brides and grooms stole some of her tranquility today and threatened to scuttle prosperity by 1943.

No one bothered much about the million babies who should have been born during the World War but weren't until Sir William Beveridge started issuing his grim figures from the London University school of economics.

But now Sir William has furniture manufacturers and builders worried.

He predicted during yesterday's session of the British association that the wartime drop in the birth rate really would make itself felt around 1943 and he backed it up with a graph, figures and all the eloquence at his command.

Brain Twizzlers

By PROF. J. D. FLINT

You have probably seen some of the industrial villages scattered throughout the country which have been planned by large companies for their employees. One of these consists of sixty-four houses, all spaced identically.

One night a young man who lived in one of the houses, decided to call upon a young lady who lived in another of the houses. He had forgotten which one she lived in and had no way of finding out other than calling at each one to inquire.

As it happened hers was the last one he called upon. Trace the poor young man's trail from house to house until he reaches her, after calling at all the others. This should be done so that he makes only fourteen turns, the fewest number possible. The illustration shows their positions.

Madman's Island

BY NARD JONES

Copyright 1937 NEA Service, Inc.

CAST OF CHARACTERS
KAY DEARBORN—heroine who inherits a yacht for vacation.
MELITA—KAY's roommate and co-adventurer.
PRISCILLA DUNN—the third adventurer.
FORREST BROTHERS and GRANT HARPER—young scientists whose expedition turned out to be a rare experience.

Yesterday Kay escapes her crazed captor, is shot at and finally locates the cabin and she is unable to locate the cabin and the girls.

CHAPTER X

NOT until the cruiser "Chinook" was out of sight did Melita and Priscilla come to the full realization that Kay Dearborn was really leaving them marooned on the island. Knowing Kay, they were certain she had good reason, and the footprints in the sand made them suspect what that reason was. That poor Kay was the prisoner of a murderer they had little doubt.

Yet this scarcely alleviated their own situation. Except for the small rifle, they were helpless.
And there was no way of knowing whether or not the island's only danger was embodied in the unknown man aboard the disappearing "Chinook." However, their concern for Kay helped to keep their minds from their own troubles.

"We can't stay here on the open beach," Melita said. "Let's get away from that cabin and do some exploring. Maybe—maybe we'll find something else on this island."

"That's just what I'm afraid of," admitted Priscilla. "From now on I'll expect anything. Where do you expect that fellow is taking Kay?"

"I wish we knew," Melita was trying hard to keep her voice steady. "But—we can be sure that Kay can take care of herself if anyone can."

Shunning the dreaded cabin, the two girls started up the lonely beach. As they walked they kept their eyes on the thick wood, hardly knowing what to expect.

For more than an hour they trudged over the sand and pebbles of the beach. Gradually, with the weariness of tramping, their fears subsided—and something more terrible took their place. This was thirst and hunger. Neither mentioned her longing for water and food, yet each began to realize that the passing of a few more hours would see their needs serious, indeed.

"The sun was high overhead, they stopped of one accord. "We're just wearing ourselves out."

seives out," Melita had to admit.
"We'd better sit down and think this over."

Finding a sheltered spot at the edge of the wood, the two dropped to the ground exhausted. "Do you suppose there'd be a spring or creek somewhere in the woods?"
Priscilla ventured.

"I don't know. But we've got to find out. The only alternative is to return to that cabin. I didn't see any food there—but there must be water."

Another hour's walking convinced them that they must accept the alternative. Dread it as they would, they must return to that mysterious cabin where all their troubles had begun. What they would find there this time they could only guess. And their fevered brains conjured up many things.

Melita looked at Priscilla fearfully. "We'll have to go back. If we go into the woods now we're liable to get lost, or run into something worse than anything at the cabin. Let's follow the shoreline back."

"They had returned only a few hundred yards when they were startled to see a sleek mahogany speedboat putting into the beach ahead. Nervously Melita clutched at her rifle, and then Priscilla broke out with a joyful cry.

"Look! There's the man who helped us in Fairweather Cove!
The one from the white yacht."

No doubt of it, the young man at the wheel of the speedboat was the one who had visited the "Chinook" with good advice and an invitation to breakfast. Seated beside him were two companions about his own age. And beyond the moving speedboat was the welcome sight of the white yacht, riding pleasantly at anchor.

AS the speedboat nosed into the sand, its occupants were astonished at the sight of two bedraggled young women, one with a rifle, rushing toward them. One of the young men leaped out with a forward line, pulled the light speedboat further into the sand.

"Hello, there!" he said. "What-I say, aren't you two from the "Chinook"? Where's your good-looking skipper?"

"She's—she's been kidnapped," Melita blurted out.

The other two debarked then and joined their companion. Hurriedly Melita told the story of the cabin, of their damaged dinghy, and the strange departure of the "Chinook." The young men exchanged glances in frank doubt.

"You don't have to believe us now," Priscilla said hotly. "But you've got to help us find Kay."

The driver of the speedboat spoke up. "We do want to help you. But I warn you, if this is a practical joke, it'll go hard."

"Joke?" repeated Melita unbelievingly. "How can you be so stupid?"

The young man grinned. "Maybe because we're university professors. But we do want to help, really. Let me introduce Tom and Mac Forrest—and I'm Grant Harper. We're doing some study of these waters for the university. I warn you, we're poor and honest.

The palatial yacht out there is chartered, and the university is paying for it."

The run along the shore in the speedboat to the beached dinghy was the work of but a few moments. When Grant Harper saw the damaged boat, and the bloodstains on the cabin floor, he quickly dropped his bantering tone.

He turned to the two brothers.
"I'd say this is no time to be chasing fauna. There's something mighty strange here." Facing the girls he added, "I imagine you could stand some food and rest.
Suppose you go aboard the "Mis-tral" with Tom. Mac and I will make a circle of the island in the speedboat."

"But," Melita protested,
"shouldn't we be going after the "Chinook"?"

Harper nodded. "Yes. But I have a hunch we'll find her on the other side of the island. If the man is a murderer he wouldn't want to be hitting for civilization in that boat. And if a wrong of the island proves I'm wrong, we can quickly overtake the "Chinook" with the "Mistral." What I'm afraid of is that he intends to keep your friend right here."

TOO exhausted mentally and physically to offer a better plan, Melita and Priscilla agreed.
The four went out to the yacht in the speedboat, and the two girls climbed aboard with Tom Forrest.

When Mac and Grant Harper had put the trio aboard they shot away in the speedboat. As the runabout reached the north end of the island, Harper slowed down and climbed from the driver's seat.

"I'm going along the east shore on foot, Mac. You take it easy right here, and if I'm not back in an hour you'd better take a slow cruise along the shoreline."

"But what's the idea?"
"You can hear this motor too darned easy. If our man is around we don't want him to know the girls have help. Don't be popping

OGLE CO. FAIR HAS BIG LABOR DAY PROGRAM

Crowd of 15,000 Witness Harness Events at Oregon

Ogle county's 84th annual fair at Oregon closed last evening with a concert by the Oregon Junior Municipal band, a vaudeville show and fireworks display after the fair management had played hosts earlier in the day to the largest Labor Day crowd at this fair in recent years. E. D. Landers, secretary, estimated the Labor Day audience for the racing program at 15,000. The grandstand was packed to the roof, bleacher seats were crowded and many stood along both sides of the track to witness the class harness events.

There was better than average attendance on Saturday, opening day, despite threatening weather in the morning. The Sunday horse show attracted 6,000 people in the afternoon, and the night shows Saturday, Sunday and Monday were well patronized.

"It was one of the most successful fairs seen in Oregon since the depression," Mr. Landers said. "The weather man gave us a break this year, and we had the crowds."

Nearly all classes in the livestock and agricultural departments were filled. There was a fine flower show and a good exhibit of school work in which 37 rural schools were represented. The exhibit of farm machinery and home equipment was the largest ever shown, and the number of rides and clean concessions filled all the space that it was possible to allot to these attractions.

Concerts were given Saturday by the combined Forrester and Mt. Morris high school bands, directed by Beth Hower. The Rochelle Municipal band played Sunday and Labor Day afternoon. There were many free acts in front of the stands at all of the afternoon and evening programs, and Sunday night the crowd was entertained by the artists of radio station WJJD of Chicago.

Horse Show Popular
The horse show was the main event of Sunday, while harness races topped other entertainment features Saturday and Monday afternoons.

Preceding the regular race program Monday, James A. Cartwright, Chicago, stepped his trotter, Even Tone, a mile in 2:21 for a breeder's record.

In the 2:14 trot yesterday Crazy Quilt, owned by H. Warren of Moline and driven by Charley Rumley, took three heats in a row. Guy Arion, owned by Sam Haines of Macomb, Ill., took three seconds in a row. Ann Bradford's Belle, owned by C. L. Jennings, Decatur, Ill., took fourth place in the first heat but finished in third place in the two remaining heats. Bell Weather, also owned by Mr. Haines, took third place in the first heat and then placed fourth in the two final heats. Time was 2:10 1/2, 2:11 1/2, 2:10 1/2.

M. E. (Pat) Bacon of Aurora was the starter for all the harness events. In each race a purse of $200 and added money was paid.

In the 2:24 pace Robert E. owned by H. Staples of Princeton, placed first in three straight heats. Independent Girl, owned by A. Johnson, Granger, Mo., took two seconds and a third; Goldenrod Bob, Lee Colson, Oregon, took a third, fifth and sixth place in the three heats, while May E. Guy, owned by Sam Harris of Plymouth, Ill., placed fifth in the first heat and then captured second and third place in the remaining heats. Nick McKlyo, owned by E. T. Burright & Son, Mendota, took two fourths and a fifth, and Star Prince, owned by T. Jenkins, Tina, Mo., took two sixths and one fourth place.

Driver Escapes Injury
Braden Azoff, owned by Tom Morrissey of Pecatonica and driven by Charley Rumley, slipped and fell while turning into the home stretch in the first heat of the 2:24 pace. Mr. Rumley jumped clear of the wreckage and was uninjured. The horse was able to walk from the track but was drawn after being awarded seventh place in the first race. In the mixup Star Prince jarred T. Jenkins, the driver, from his seat, and came under the wire without a driver.

Time of this race was: 2:14 1/2, 2:12 1/2, 2:13 1/2.
Jim Wherry, owned by Bert Jones, Heyworth, Ill., won two first positions and one second; Boy Direct, owned by Sam Haines, Macomb, Ill., took one first and two thirds, while Strathwood Boy, owned by A. Johnson, Granger, Mo., placed fourth twice and fifth once, and John B. Napoleon, owned by H. Clark, Oswego, Ill., placed fourth once and fifth twice. Sixth place went to Peter Duke, owned by U. J. Shanklin, Anamosa, Ia., in the first two heats, but this horse was drawn in the last heat. Time was 2:10 1/2, 2:10 1/2, 2:09 3/4.

In the 2:17 pace Saturday afternoon, Victor Watts, owned and driven by H. Wilkening of Hayesville, Ia., slipped and fell just around the turn of the home stretch. The driver was thrown clear of the wreckage and sustained only minor bruises and cuts about the head and face. The horse was injured so severely it could not get up and had to be dragged from the track. It was reported yesterday that the animal was paralyzed. It was in sixth and last place at the time of the accident, which occurred during the first heat.

Wisconsin Man Wins
In the 2:17 pace Truebae, owned by Sam Dunlap, Sun Prairie, Wis., took three straight heats. Sir Aegon took two seconds and a third; Travilla T. two thirds and a fifth; Mazie Volo a second, fourth and fifth; and Laura Wag, a Mendota entry, placed fifth in the first heat and then took two fourths. Time was: 2:14 1/2, 2:12 1/2, 2:13 1/2.

Commodore Calumet, a Rockford horse, took two firsts and a third place in the 2:24 trot. Roan Worthing took two seconds and a third; Lee Farrell, a first, second and fifth; Iowa Star, a third, fourth and fifth; and Siskiyou, Jr., two fourths and a fifth. Time was: 2:13 1/2, 2:13, 2:13.

Volo Etawah, owned by Rumley & Son, Morrison, Ill., took three straight heats in the 2:19 trot. Lauretha placed second twice and third once, while Lady Claire, driven by Mrs. Burright of Oregon, one of the loveliest women drivers in the business, placed second in the first heat and then took two third places. Sam Wallace's Dorothy Senator placed fourth in the three heats. Time was 2:15, 2:16 1/2, 2:15 1/2.

Lester, Jr., a horse trained by the late Will Rogers, was drawn from the 2:19 trot but gave an exhibition at the close of the harness program Saturday. It was announced that at Stockton this horse had established a mark of 2:09 1/2.

Judging of livestock and other exhibits began Sunday. Results of the judging in the beef and dairy cattle and sheep departments were as follows:
